THE UNIVERSITY OF ALBERTA STAFF BULLETIN

EDMONTON, ALBERTA

FEBRUARY 22, 1973

ACADEMIC SALARY SETTLEMENT ANNOUNCED

The results of salary negotiations between the Board of Governors and the Association of the Academic Staff of The University of Alberta (AASUA) were announced Monday, February 19 by MAX WYMAN, President.

The settlement provides for a 5.3 percent salary increase for all members of the academic staff, which includes professional librarians, administrative and professional officers, and the teaching and research staff. The adjustment will become effective July 1, 1973 and will continue for one year.

A decision on the salary increase was made by a selection officer after the Board and the AASUA were unable to reach an agreement.

Both parties had agreed that "the University's salary scale should be among the highest among Canadian universities" and that "average salaries paid at this University should be among the highest among Canadian universities." It also was agreed that salary scales should be adjusted to meet changes in the cost of living. The Board argued that only changes in the cost of living in the Edmonton region should be considered, while the AASUA contended that the national index was a better measurement. Both parties had agreed to base their measurements on a September to September period.

The Consumer Price Index for the Edmonton region increased by 4.3 percent from September, 1971 to September, 1972. The National Index rose by 5.3 percent during the same period.

The Board's final offer was a salary increase of 4 percent; the AASUA proposed an increase of 5.3 percent.

Deciding in favor of the AASUA's position, the selection officer stated that "In cases where comparison of salary levels extends to salaries paid in comparable classifications outside the Province of Alberta, it is only logical that the National Index be considered in the determination of salary adjustment. This is a normal criterion in collective bargaining, especially where no other factors are considered."

Other terms in the memorandum of agreement signed by the two parties are as follows:

1. The group total disability insurance program offered by The University of Alberta shall be amended in the following respects:

- (a) All premiums shall be fully paid by contributions deducted from the salary of participating members; salary scales shall be adjusted to compensate members for the additional amount of premiums payable by them;
- (b) Future amendments to the plan shall be made only following discussions with the Insurance Committee of the AASUA;
- (c) This change shall go into effect July 1, 1973.

2. The program for remission of tuition fees to staff members shall be extended to include all courses offered by The University of Alberta where the tuition fee is $25 or greater; all other conditions governing the program shall continue as they are.

3. Representatives of the Board of Governors and the Association will prepare, by joint action, recommendations which would, if implemented, provide early retirement options to members of the academic staff; such recommendations shall be prepared, if possible, for discussion by the Board and members of the Association by September, 1973.

4. The Board of Governors and the Association shall provide for the preparation of a procedure for the interpretation of agreements made between the Board of Governors and the Association, and of regulations made pursuant thereto, in the event that a dispute arises over the intent and meaning of the terms of such agreements.

TEACHER-REPORTED MARKS REPLACE GRADE 12 EXAMS

The Honourable LOU HYNDMAN, Minister of Education, has announced a new government policy that will allow accredited Alberta high schools to assign final grades in all courses, for all students. At present, the schools award final grades in approximately 260 academic and vocational subjects but not in 13 departmental examination subjects.

Departmental examinations will, however, be retained for use in specific instances such as satisfying student appeals, determining certain scholarship awards, and meeting the needs of adult and private study candidates.

The changeover to teacher-reported grades is officially scheduled for September of this year. The Department of Education will accommodate schools that wish to make the transition immediately or that wish to delay implementation until the end of the 1973-74 academic year.

Mr. Hyndman also announced the establishment of a revised Articulation Committee that will, in the near future, begin the continuing assessment of provincial accreditation procedures. The committee also will review methods designed to measure a school's performance in maintaining standards.

To be accredited, high schools must have all matriculation subjects taught by certified teachers and must follow prescribed government course outlines and time allotments. Final grades must be determined by supportable procedures and the school must be operated in accordance with Department of Education regulations.

The accreditation of high schools to assign final grades will have no real effect on admissions policies at The University of Alberta, where both examination results and teacher-reported grades have, for some time, been accepted provided they were forwarded as official transcripts from the Department of Education.

W. A. D. BURNS, Assistant Registrar, says he has confidence in teacher-reported grades and points out that "on matriculation exams, 50 percent of the mark was the teacher-reported grade anyway. The new policy simply means that the transcript we receive will represent all of the teacher assessment, as well as the grades on any matriculation exams that were written."
